Mother of Drugged Tots Mental Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Authorities today agreed to let Juvenile Court handle the case of a mother who admitted feeding two daughters sleep-inducing drugs. Medical authorities say she needs mental treatment.

A decision to file neglect charges against Lillian Fratanlio, 29, mother of the "sleeping beauties," was reached during a conference of city and county officials and a study of a statement she made to detectives.

Her statement included an assertion that one reason for her not was that she was trying to bring herself and her husband, Vincent, 33, closer together. Detective Inspector Richard R. Wagner said. In another part of the statement she said she began dosing Bernadette, 3, last fall "to calm her down because she was too peppy."

Wagner said the statement did not elaborate on why the young mother felt the need to strengthen her marriage relationship.

The neglect charge is a misdemeanor.

Hearing is scheduled for Friday to determine the custody of three Fratanlio girls—Venita, 5; Bernadette, and a 6-day-old daughter, all of whom were made wards of Juvenile Court. Mrs. Fratanlio remains at St. Ann Hospital with a policeman guarding her. Two sons, Joseph, 7, and James, 4, are at the home of grandparents.

Physicians were baffled why the girls drifted into a coma at intervals. The explanation came late last week: traces of barbiturates were found in the veins of the girls.

CLEVELAND'S "SLEEPING BEAUTY" MYSTERY SOLVED — Bernadette Fratanlio, 3, and her sister, Venita, 5, right, romp in Cleveland's Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Bernadette had been in a state of suspended animation for most of the past 11 months. Her older sister joined her in the mysterious slumber last month to the mystification of top medical minds. As a last resort, the children's blood was tested revealing traces of barbiturates — sleeping drugs.

The children have been put into the custody of the state and their mother, Mrs. Lillian Fratanlio, 29, was taken into technical custody by police at St. Ann's Hospital in Cleveland where she gave birth to her fifth child — an eight-pound daughter — last Tuesday. She and her husband deny knowledge of how the drugs came to be administered to the children. — NEA Telephone

Widow of Admiral Is Raped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 70-year-old widow of a Navy admiral was raped and robbed in her apartment in a fashionable north-west Washington area early Monday, police said.

The woman lives alone in a sixth-floor apartment. She told Detective Robert W. Hahn she awoke about 4 a.m. when the intruder started choking her.

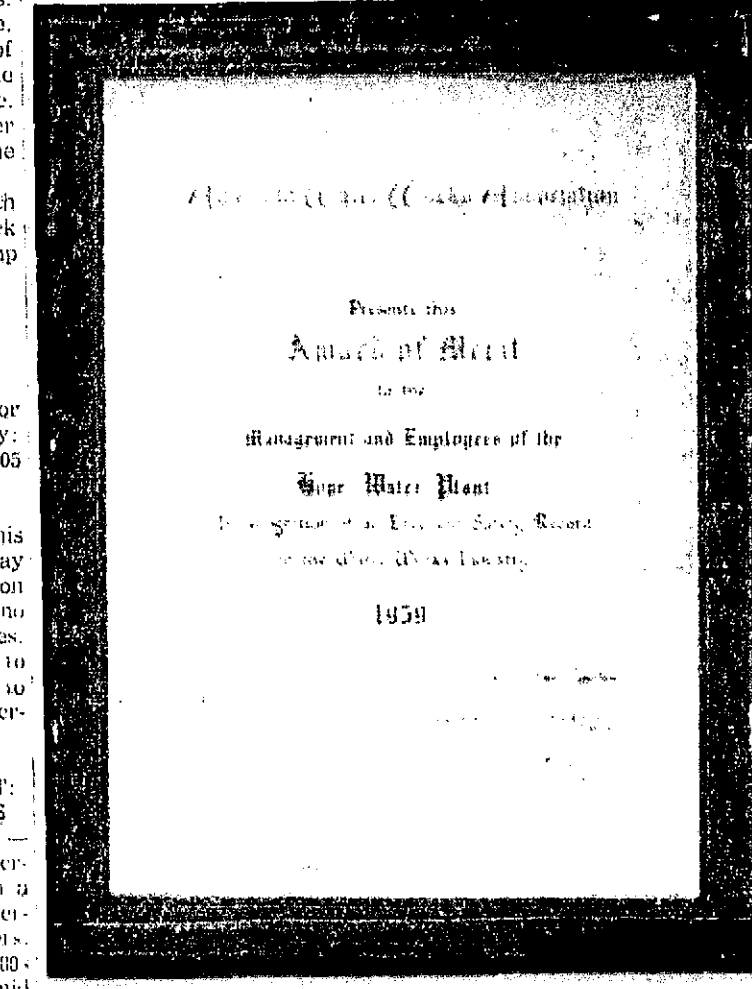

She said that after raping her, the man tore a pillow case into strips and gagged her, bound her to a chair with a sheet and demanded "where is your money." She said she nodded toward a nightstand where her purse was lying. He took the purse, containing $20, and left.

The woman, whose name was withheld, said the man had a foreign accent. Her husband once commanded a big naval facility here.

Jail Father Who Hid Son in Dungeon

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—A father of four was in jail today charged with child neglect as police investigated the case of his 4-year-old son who was found in a dark and dirty cobbler of his home.

Police said the father, Rudolph Escamilla, 29, told them his son, Anthony, had been in the cell-like stall for a month. But police said neighbors reported Escamilla, his wife, Paula, 27, and their three daughters had lived in the home for 14 months and they never knew the family had a son.

Police broke into the makeshift 5-by-10 foot prison Saturday night after neighbors reported they heard a child crying.

The boy, wearing only a T-shirt, was sitting on a pile of rags, which was his bed. He was locked behind sliding doors in what once had been a staircase foyer.

Anthony was taken to a hospital. Authorities said there were several cuts on his body and bumps on his head.

"We ashamed, we ashamed," was all Mrs. Escamilla would say, indicating, police said, the boy was mentally retarded.

Freeport Sulphur Plant Worth 75 Million Is Seized by Castro Cuba

By OBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro regime has taken over the Freeport Sulphur Company's 75-million-dollar nickel and cobalt plant in Cuba. The American-owned plant has been idle since March, when the government put a heavy export tax on its output.

Announcement Sunday of government intervention of Freeport's Moa Bay Mining Co. heightened fears in private business circles concerning the fate of 75 million dollars worth of other American mining properties still under private management.

President Osvaldo Dorticos announced the intervention—which can mean anything from taken supervision to outright control—gave no reason. It was expected, however, the government eventually would say it had taken over the plant to protect workers' jobs, claiming the management had abandoned it.

In New York, the Freeport company said it would take all possible steps under Cuban and international law to protect its legal rights.

The action against the Moa-Bay company came a week after a government decree nationalizing more than 700 million dollars worth of other American-owned properties in Cuba.

Mo-Bay is the largest privately owned mining enterprise in Cuba. Started in 1957, it was not fully completed last March when officials of the company said they could not continue operations because of a new 25-per-cent tax on the gross value of the plant's product regardless of income.

Mo-Bay employed about 3,200 workers—most of them Cubans. When finished it was to turn out 50 million pounds of nickel and almost 4½ million pounds of cobalt annually.

Chief among the other American-owned mining properties is the Niquero nickel plant, which was built by the U.S. government. Representatives of the U.S. General Services Administration and the Castro regime are still discussing sale of the plant to Cuba.

Other American investments still untouched by the Cuban government include an estimated 150 million dollars worth of insurance, pharmaceutical, rubber and aluminum companies, and about 50 million dollars in banks and

Wife Disowns Powers' Plea of Guilty

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Barbara Powers and two Virginia attorneys spend more than an hour today discussing with Francis Gary Powers' Soviet embassy the defense he may make for the U-2 pilot. Powers' goes on trial Wednesday.

The discussion was "very difficult," the Virginians said. The two attorneys, Frank W. Rogers of Manassas and Alexander W. Parker of Richmond, were the first Americans to see the defense attorney.

The attorney, Mikhail Mich Gelinov, appointed by the Soviet government, is gray-haired and looks like a country doctor. He is the presiding officer of the Juridical Council, an advisory legal body in the Soviet Union. He has reportedly handled considerable criminal work.

The trial presumably begins at 10 a. m. Wednesday, the normal hour for court hearings in the Soviet Union. Hearings normally run until 6 p. m., but there has been no official announcement of the trial hours.

The trial is expected to last about three days but that is based on surmise because several reporters received visas good only for four days. This would

Education Group Will Oppose 52

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — An Arkansas Education Assn. Leaders Work Conference closed here Saturday with most of the teachers vowing to work publicly for defeat of school closing Amendment 52 in the November election.

Forrest Rozzel of Little Rock, AEA executive secretary, told teachers in the conference's final day that they must "fight it not privately, but publicly."

The proposed amendment, which will be on the November ballot, provides that school districts need not abolish public schools. It also has a millage clause which has drawn fire from educators.

"The AEA is bitterly opposed to any kind of school closing," said J. Kennamer, Paris school superintendent, told delegates that if the amendment is approved, it will result in "a bushel of lawsuits."

Rozzel told the teachers their weapons for educational progress should be "persuasion and conversion and not coercion."

mother admitted Saturday night she had been feeding the girls drugs—for 11 months in the case of Bernadette and since last month for Venita.

"This is strictly a mental case," said "Coroner" Samuel R. Gerber. "She cannot be considered a criminal." Dr. Earl E. Smith, pediatrician of the drug-saturated sisters, concurred.

But detective Inspector Richard R. Wagner said, "It is not my job to provide alibis for persons who commit felonies. It is up to the courts to say that she is to submit to mental examination and treatment."

"Remember that these children almost died. I have no other course to take."

Mrs. Frattantonio remains at St. Ann Hospital with a police-woman on guard. The mother, who gave birth last Tuesday to another daughter—her fifth child—is under protective custody.

All three daughters—Venita, Bernadette and the six-day-old infant—have been made wards of Juvenile Court. Final disposition of their custody will be made Friday at a hearing conducted by Judge Margaret J. Spellacy.

Two other children, Joseph, 7, and James, 4, never showed any of the odd sleeping symptoms.

The girls, now sleeping in a normal pattern, will show no ill effects from their experience, Mount Sinai Hospital physicians reported.

Johnson for Pay-as-Go Medical Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called today for a pay-as-you-go system of medical care for the elderly.

Johnson, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, joined Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the party standard bearer, in criticizing terms of a bill approved Saturday by the Senate Finance Committee.

"The committee measure is inadequate and does not meet the problem of medical care for the needy," Johnson told a news conference. "We should put this on a pay-as-you-go basis, linked to the Social Security system."

The measure would provide for federal grants to be matched by the states for medical care of indigent elderly.

Johnson said the medical care bill will be considered by the Senate after it includes work on a pending measure to raise the $1 minimum hourly wage to $1.25 and expand the coverage of the law.

He said that if a mutual security appropriations bill is ready first it will get priority over the medical care measure.

Kennedy has announced he's ready to battle for a medical care bill pegged to Social Security taxes.

Race for Speaker of Arkansas House

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A race for speaker of the Arkansas House next year is shaping up between two veteran members—Rep. John P. Bell of Prairie County and Rep. Marion Crane of Little River County.

Both men have called at Gov. Orval E. Faubus' office—Crane Wednesday and Bell today—and apparently would like to have the governor's support.

Faubus hasn't given any indication of his attitude. Bell said he had received pledges from 85 incumbent House members but that 22 of these supporters were defeated in the recent Democratic primaries.

Crane wouldn't say anything about his support but conceded that he is after the speaker's job. Bell said that Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, a power in the House, had asked him to withdraw in favor of Crane but that he had refused.

Age Limit to Love? Asks 'Lonely Guy'

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Is it possible for people over 50 to fall in love? If so, can this love last as in the case of those who have been married many years?

I know there are many people in this age group who would like to marry again but because of discrepancy in years are not likely to do so. To my way of thinking for two people to marry without love is to end in the divorce court.

Also—how does one go about meeting others of similar age and I don't mean the bar type?—Just Another Lonely Guy

Dear Just Another Lonely Guy: There is no age limit to love. It has been my experience that the more mature the person, the deeper and stronger the quality of the love. Whether or not it will last depends entirely upon the principals. Like everything else in life, you have to work at it. Those who hesitate to marry again because of age are missing the plane. Love is certainly essential but congeniality, companionship and a sense of humor are also factors.

If you want to meet congenial people, get up and go where you will be brought in contact with them. The better resorts, foreign cruises, dance classes, study groups are likely hunting grounds. But, you'll have no luck unless you are worth catching!

Dear Helen: I will soon be 44, am considered good looking and date a boy who is 15 and in a class above me. He says it is all or nothing with him. I don't want to go steady. This boy is always doing things he knows I don't like. I have broken off several times. When I do his mother comes to see my mother and says, "What hurts him, hurts her," and says she is just sick about it. My mother makes me patch it up and away we go again. Is it fair to be forced to go with someone you've told off? Am I not old enough to know what I want and why?

I think this growing up is terrible. I surely have had plenty of grief this past year and am just about ready to give up. When should a girl start going steady? How can you ever be sure it's the right boy if you don't go with more than one?—Worried and

Perplexed
Dear Worried and Perplexed: Parents should not choose their children's friends if they ever hope to see them develop into self-reliant, mature, human beings. However, those who take this long range view should make their children feel that with this freedom of choice goes responsibility. If you don't like this boy, say so. That is your right.

Once you understand the process of growing up, it isn't so hard to take. As you know if you read this column, I'm opposed to the custom of going steady. Only by knowing many boys can a girl be sure when the right one comes along.

Dear Helen: I moved and was unpacking my dishes when I happened to notice your column of May 26 in the newspaper—wondering in which you mention a leather listing "Pen Pals."

Will you send this leaflet to me? I got smashed up in a bad accident so the chance to visit with others means a lot. I always read your column and enjoy it very much. God bless and keep you!

Baton Twirler Twirls Too Hard

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—It finally happened. A baton twirler twirled too hard—and his baton slipped out of control.

Guests of honor on the review-stand ducked. Down came the baton—and guess who it hit? Gov. Edmund G. Brown, guest of honor at the annual "Old Spanish Days Fiesta" parade. Teen-age twirler Keith Hodges Thursday walked unsteadily to the stand to retrieve his baton. The governor had a smile for the youth. The baton, he said, had only hit him on the first bounce.

New Gymnasium

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ground will be broken next week for construction of a new gymnasium at Hendrix College.

The Board of Trustees yesterday awarded a contract for construction of the 100,000 sq. ft. gymnasium to Langley Construction Co. of Little Rock. They submitted a low bid of $637,000. The cost with furnishings will be about $700,000.

The new building will replace an older facility.

Sues for Divorce

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Actress Jean Simmons, charging mental cruelty, has been granted divorce from her actor-husband, Stewart Granger.

The divorce was granted Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Gordon Parley and the final decree was expected to be signed today or Saturday.

Miss Simmons, who filed the action July 7, was granted custody of the couple's daughter, Tracy, 3. She did not seek alimony, but will receive child support payments.

THE WOLF THAT RODE

By Nelson Nye

THE STORY: BREH Fasken is slowly finding himself pitted against his sister Jo in a fight for control of a cattle empire. Jo is trying to outlaw a rancher named Trone, claiming he is a cattle rustler.

CHAPTER VII

A group of squatting men, silent at his approach, thickened the shadows below the railed porch. He could feel their curious stares as he moved through them and stoically mounted the steps. The single red eye of a Hobbled O. hand rolled burned in front of the glassless door which stood closed, like the windows, although it was hot enough to melt bear grease.

The burning eye went pit-wheeling over the rail, marking its discards either as a green-horn or maybe a careless man. Brett, caught in the butter, yellow flood from the windows, couldn't see much more than the general shape of him against that black door. The man said bluntly: "You can turn around now and climb back down with Brett."

"Maybe," Brett smiled, "I've Hobbled O. He had to do it in such a way that some of these

"I can wait till they're still but Tice, The Hobbled O. through them. This hasn't happened since. Turn around." Brett casually but firmly watching Tice. Ollie Schullz, thrust the man to one side, step whom Brett had imagined to have ping through the door before the gone home after his hysterics at fellow could take up enough slack to stop him.

Tice had been talking, he broke off in midflow, and stared angrily at Brett. "You've got the wrong place. This is an Association meetin'. For gentlemen," he said pointedly. "I thought my sister owned a Hobbled O."

"She does," Tice snapped, not seeing that Brett had put the words in his mouth. "I'm speakin' for her. You've got no stake here, Fasken."

There were perhaps to men in the smoky room. Plagler, the Currycomb owner, was sardonically watching from his perch on a desk a few paces from Tice. The rest of the bunch, a raggedy, general shape of him against that black door. The man said bluntly: "You can turn around now and climb back down with Brett."

men would see that the word got around. He said now to Tice, "Not a stake maybe but I've certainly got a voice."

"Talkin' for who?" "Trone," Brett said. "I'm representin' Scab 8."

Every man in the room went over his shoulder, demanding incredulously. "You sidin' that trash?" "Currycomb's not taking sides—yet," Plagler's sardonic glance swept over all of them.

Plagler said, "Nobody's doubtin' that bordered on the edge there's stuff being stolen. I been missin' a few here and there myself. That don't have to mean 'Trone's been gettin' them.' He pushed out a silent hand at Tice. "Nobody's questionin' your sincerity, Bill, but—" He stopped and, shrugging, said instead, "There's like to be trouble we go pushin' Vic into this."

"Trouble!" Tice snorted. "We got trouble now!" His eyes skewed over Brett. "This galoot's never been anythin' but trouble!"

"Is that what's back of your sweat to get rid of Vic?" Tice swung his head like a badgered bull. "No one but a plumb fool would ever doubt who's puttin' wings to these critters! I don't need no more than to look at his brand to know where my cows're goin'!"

He flung a savage glance at the bunch by the window. "I'm callin' for a show of hands, right now! Them that's for pullin' Trone out shove your fists up."

One or two seemed reluctant but all put their hands up. "That settles it," Tice glared at Plagler. He looked minded to say more but Brett took the play away.

"All right. You've put him out. He still owns stock."

Tice shouted, "All Trone owns is what acres he's filed on! He'll sell an' sell fast or git planted, right there. You can't run an outlawed brand in this country! Anythin' packin' his mark is fair meat for the first iron that gets to it!"

Nixon Plans Forays for Dixie Votes

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is getting ready for some quick dashes into the South that will carry him into states seldom visited by Republican presidential candidates.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, his Democratic opponent, will start his Southern campaign by crossing the Potomac River to Alexandria, Va., on Aug. 24.

Nixon already has scheduled a trip Wednesday to Greensboro, N.C. He once was a graduate student at Duke University in Durham, N.C.

Sen. Thurlston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, said he is urging Nixon to make flying trips to Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Virginia during the abbreviated session of Congress.

"If he is going to visit all of the states he has got to get going as soon as possible," Morton said.

The GOP chairman said he expects the campaign visits to the Deep South to be one-shot affairs. But he said he thinks Nixon will want to pay return calls to such states as Florida, Texas, North Carolina and Virginia.

Nixon's dates, like those of Kennedy, are all being made contingent on what the Senate is doing at the time. Kennedy doesn't want to get caught short on an important vote. Nixon doesn't want to miss any chance to break a tie vote or to hand down an important ruling as presiding officer.

While some senators have said it will be impossible to get a legislative program through for an adjournment before Labor Day, it is obvious both presidential candidates are pushing hard in that direction.

Kennedy already has announced plans to campaign in Hawaii, accompanied by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, on a tour starting Sept. 3.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Mort Sahl has lost his working wardrobe to a burglar.

1960 Year When West Beat East

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas high school coaches will remember 1960 as the year the West beat the East.

All-Stars took home all the trophies.

Record crowds saw the West roar from behind Saturday to win the basketball game 82-72, then cop the football game, 14-12.

The story is told in the performance of four all-star All-Stars. They are:

—Jim Grizzle, Fort Smith, end who kicked the two extra points that gave the West its winning football margin.

—Larry Hoyt, Little Rock Catholic quarterback who scored both East touchdowns on runs of 50 and nine yards and moved his team to the West seven-year line with time running out before losing the ball on downs.

—Larry Houge of North Little Rock, who led his East basketball team in scoring with 15 points and helped pile up a 10-point East third quarter lead.

—Doug McKinney of Mulberry, who scored six straight free throws with two minutes left in the basketball game to break a 70-70 tie and give the West its victory lead. He led the West with 10 points.

McKinney's streak capped a comeback leg by Archie Jones of Harrison, who scored 11 points in the fourth quarter. The West got 33 to 13 for the East in that stanza.

A board of coaches named Grizzle and Houge the outstanding players in the football and basketball games.

Hogue led the East in rebounding with seven and notched nine points in the third period to stretch a one-point halftime margin.

Grizzle formed a vital West passing combination with quarterback Pat Girard of El Dorado, who scored 15 points and did some catching four passes for a total of 89 yards and four first downs. He nipped a late East surge by spilling quarterback Eugene Gilbert of Malvern for a seven-yard loss.

There were many other stars in Saturday's contests. Mike Edwards of Texarkana led the West in rushing with 51 yards in 14 tries and did most of the digging toward the first touchdown.

Halfbacks Charles Jacob of Texarkana and Wayne Wells of Booneville scored the West touchdowns on runs of one-half and five yards, respectively. And halfback Jim Tarkington of England closed, to scoring an All-Star touchdown without making it.

He took a pass from Don Williams of Bearden in the third quarter with one foot in the end zone and one foot out. The officials said he was more out than in, touching down drive. Jonesboro.

Larry Hoyt got 68 yards to lead the East in rushing and fullback the East's defensive standouts.

Donnie Kessinger of Forrest City, who netted 14 for the East, gave his team a first-quarter lead that stood up through most of the first half. Chester Barnes Jr. of Marmaduke got it back for the East with an eight-point spread late in the first half after a tough West second unit had chased Kessinger's lead away.

And Johnny Vocum of Fort Smith did a staunch defensive job on All-America Kessinger. Archie Jones of Harrison hit 14 points for the West.

Doug Norwood of Mineral Springs, a third unit West football quarterback, engineered the winning touchdown drive. Jonesboro.

guard Mike Vinson was one of the East's defensive standouts.

Orioles and Sox Tied for 1st; N. Y. 3rd

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox are deadlocked for the American League lead, but it's Casey Stengel who's fit to be tied.

An angry Stengel, his New York Yankees reduced to third place a half-game back after losing a double-header Sunday to the Washington Senators, sent Mickey Mantle to the showers in the sixth inning of the second game when the top-bracket center fielder failed to run out a ground ball.

The slow bouncer was converted into a double play and ended a rally by the Yanks, who had just tied it 1-1 and also had just lost slugger Roger Maris through injury.

"I took him out because he didn't run," Stengel snapped. "I'm tired of seeing him no run. If he can't run, he should tell me and I wouldn't put him out there."

Mantle, who singled twice in seven trips for his part of the record 7-hour and 58-minute twin-bill, denied that there was anything wrong with his chronically lame legs. "It wasn't my idea to come out," he said.

It was a frustrating afternoon and evening for Stengel and the Yanks, who lost the opener 5-4 on Camilo Pascual's first major league home run, a grand slam shot, then blew a ninth-inning lead and dropped the nightcap 6-3 in 15 innings.

Baltimore, after winning eight straight, lost 2-0 to Boston. That cost the Orioles a full share of first as the White Sox moved in with a 9-3 and 7-2 sweep over Kansas City. Cleveland dropped into a fourth-place tie with Washington after losing two to Detroit 6-1 and 3-2.

In the National League, Pittsburgh gained a six-game bulge, largest of the season, by beating second-place St. Louis twice, 9-4 and 3-2 in 11 innings. Milwaukee defeated San Francisco 3-0, Los Angeles split with Cincinnati, winning 9-5 after a 2-0 defeat. Chicago's Cubs fled eighth place and dropped Philadelphia into the cellar by whipping the Phils twice, 2-1 and 7-3.

The White Sox gave Billy Pierce and Early Wynn plenty of support in their sweep, swinging for 15 hits in the opener and 11 in the nightcap.

The Red Sox, who nailed two Oriole runners at the plate, blew a 2-0 lead on a two-run homer by Ron Hansen, who was 4-for-4 in the sixth. Then they cracked the tie in the seventh on a walk, Willie Tasby's single and Ted Williams' infield bouncer.

Rocky Colavito hit a home run in each game for the Tigers, but three unearned runs won the opener, and Charlie Maxwell's fifth-inning home run clinched the nightcap against Cleveland.

to the city after having spent several weeks with his parents in Maryland.

He was accompanied home by his sister, Mrs. Catherine Chase of Mitchellville, Maryland, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Hawkins of Upper Marlboro, Maryland and his brother-in-law, Sumnerfield Blake of Washington, D. C.

Pirates Slam Cards Twice; Bolster Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

For a club that's supposed to fold any day now, those Pittsburgh Pirates persistently bounce back into shape every time they begin to bend a bit.

There was that long, five-game weekend with second-place St. Louis, for instance. The Bucs went into the showdown with a five-game lead, a seven-game bulge over Los Angeles and Milwaukee and led San Francisco's Giants by 14.

The Cards took the first two games of the set, and it looked like this might be it. But the Bucs rebounded and packed away the last three, sweeping a double-header 8-4, 5-1. Vern Law won his 17th, and 3-2 in 11 innings Sunday. That rocketed the Pirates into a six-game lead over the Cards, and padded their bulge to eight games over the Dodgers and 14 1/2 over the Giants.

The Braves, who whipped the Giants 3-0 on Ed Mathews' three-run homer in the first inning and Low Burdette's five-hit pitching, alone of the so-called contenders gained any ground on the Pirates over the weekend. Milwaukee took third place and now trails by 6 1/2. Los Angeles stayed in fourth, splitting a twinbill at Cincinnati. The Reds won 2-0 as Cal McLish pitched his second shutout in the majors—first since 1953—but the Dodgers then rapped out a 9-5 nightcap victory. Chicago's Cubs fled the cellar and dropped Philadelphia in, sweeping the Phils 2-1 and 7-3.

In the American League, Baltimore and Chicago's White Sox tied for first place as Washington tumbled New York to third, a half-game back. Chicago moved up by beating Kansas City twice, 9-3 and 7-2, after Boston beat the Orioles 3-2. The Senators defeated the Yanks 5-4 in the opener, then took the second game 6-3 in 15 innings. Detroit lost two from Cleveland, 6-1 and 3-2.

Law, now within one of matching his all-time one-year victory high, gave up a dozen hits, but the Pirates backed him with 13 against loser Larry Jackson (13-10) and two relievers. Rocky Nelson drove in three runs, two with a double as the Bucs scored four runs in the third inning.

The Pirates blew a 2-0 lead in the nightcap, but finally put it away against reliever Lindy McDaniel (10-4) with a walk and singles by Bob Skinner and Don Hoak.

McLish (17-5) pitched his first complete game since May 4, and allowed nine hits, but walked just one to win a duel with loser Stan Williams (12-5), Roger Craig and Ed Roebuck.

In the second game, the Dodgers, who had 14 hits, beat reliever Joe Nuxhall (1-6) on Maury Wills' two-run single in the sixth after they had trailed 4-1.

A four-hit pitching job by Dick Ellsworth (6-8) won the opener for the Cubs. Ron Santo's second home run of the day, a sixth-inning slam, won the second game after Ernie Banks' 33rd homer had given the Cubs a 2-0 lead in the first inning.
